

Sultan-ul-Qalam

For most, a pen is a mere tool filled with ink,
Yet for him the pen became a sword.
The message of Islam had to reach several world's precinct,
Thereupon, he was sent for such record.

Words flew from him in Urdu, Arabic and Persian languages,
Spreading rivers of moral and religious discourse.
Visiting villages to villages,
His reformatory efforts became a form of resource.

He always expressed innumerable pearls of emotions,
For his faith in God was profound.
He was always guided to divine destinations,
Only to be known and found.

Today, his writings bring comfort and enlightenment,
Becoming a source of empowerment.
And a ray of hope,
For the believers.

He is,
Hazrat Mirza Ghulam Ahmad (as),
Sultan-ul-Qalam,
King of the Pen.
